FLIPSIDE

Game Design: Nick Hertz

Artwork: Vladimir Lopatin, Dmitry Fedorov

GAME OVERVIEW

Flipside is a cooperative, story-driven game for up to 4 players. Each of you will step into the shoes of a unique character from this twisted world. During the game, you will work to complete your character's personal quests while racing to achieve the scenario's shared goal. At the end of each successful scenario, characters who finish their personal quests face a final adventure.

GAMEPLAY

- After setting up one of the four scenarios, players read the opening entry and begin the game. Each scenario plays over a different number of rounds. At the start of each round, players advance the Round Tracker on the Scenario Board and read the story entry shown there.
- Then each player draws 5 Path tokens from their bag and uses them to move across Mountween. Players plan their routes together and may trade coins or items when they meet.
- After movement, each player takes one action in any order, depending on their location. They can interact with a token, complete a personal quest, set up camp, or visit a stall. Interactions and personal quests may trigger skill checks or adventures, where players use their Path tokens and items to overcome challenges.
- The game continues until the group unlocks the Final Adventure — a special board where players face the scenario's main threat together — or until the players lose.

HEROES I & II: WRITE & CONQUER

Game Design: Yuri Zhuravlev,
Egor Nikolaev

Artwork: Sergey Dulin, Anton Kvasovarov,
Valeriya Sadovaya and others

GAME OVERVIEW

Heroes: Write & Conquer is a comprehensive strategy game in a handheld format. Explore territories, build castles, gather troops and search for powerful artifacts.

GAMEPLAY

In Heroes each player chooses their own player board of a certain faction.

The game lasts for 16 rounds.

At the beginning of a round, the first player chooses four actions out of five that all players in that round will perform. The first player writes the numbers 1, 2, 3 and 4 in the boxes of the selected actions — one number per box 1. The number determines the order in which the action is performed and its level. The higher the number, the later the action is played and the higher its level.

There are 3 types of actions in the game:

Wood, iron and gold gathering allow you to add as much of that resource to your inventory 2, as the level of the action is. Resources are needed for building and recruitment.

Building and recruitment action allows you to build structures 3 and hire units 4 of a corresponding level. Structures give you unique effects, while units are needed to fight with other players, monsters, or to be able to claim fortresses and artifacts.

Finally, movement allows you to move to other sectors based on the amount of movement points you have in this round. After all players finished their movement, different types of fights can be triggered. Players can fight each other if they happened to be at the same sector, or they can claim a fortress or an artifact of that sector. They can also fight monsters 5 for reward. In order to do that, they'll be spending combat units and compare their strength.

GAME END

At the end of the game, players will count their victory points for the structures built, fortresses and artifacts claimed, resources gathered and monsters defeated.

The player with the most VPs wins.

KEY SELLING POINTS

design

GAMEPLAY

The game of Outremer consists of several rounds. Each round is divided into 4 phases — the Event Phase, the Planning Phase, the Order Phase, and the Income Phase.

In the Event Phase, effects of Event cards are resolved, after which Saracen move and/or raid the cities.

During the Planning Phase, players choose their actions by placing their order tokens on the Order Cross.

They can place their token in the inner slot as a basic order (for the current round), or in the outer slot as an enhanced order (for the next round).

In the Order phase, orders from the inner slots are resolved. There are 4 types of orders (actions):

- BUILD ORDER

Players can pay resources to upgrade the city level and buy building cards with constant effects.

- PRAY ORDER

Players advance on the sainthood track, which determines turn order and gives them rescript cards (single-use strong effects). They can also move and place bishops on their territories, which is one of the way to earn influence points.

- MUSTER ORDER

Players prepare for battles by recruiting units and studying new tactics – buying new battle cards.

- MARCH ORDER

Players choose their target, move units and resolve battle.

During the Income Phase, players receive money, restore all spent goods and get influence points for fulfilled conditions on governor cards.

SCORING

Your goal is to score the most influence points by the end of the game. You earn during the game by completing various objectives and spreading the influence of the church; at the end of the game, you may earn additional for completing secret objectives (papal bulls), fulfilling special conditions, and amassing coin.

ENTRACTE

Game Design: Nikolay Pegasov
Artwork: Marina Piskunova

GAME OVERVIEW

Entracte is a deduction puzzle game, in which players will be trying to guess each other's secret codes, while giving hints at their own.

GAMEPLAY

The common goal of the players is to correctly guess as many of the other player's codes as they can.

At the start of the game each player receives a Code card with a sequence of characteristics. During the game, they will be giving hints on their code with the help of Character cards (they cannot discuss their codes and guesses).

Each Character card has 8 types of characteristics (such as sex, age, day of the week, etc.)

By laying a Character card from their hand to the row of cards on the table, they will be creating some sequence with this and the previous card.

Sequences of characteristics can go in

- forward order;
- reverse order;
- repeat;
- alternate.

On their turn, the player has to play the card in the row from their hand, so that none of the sequences of characteristics on these two last cards match their code.

Then the other players check whether something matches their code. If it does, they place one of their tokens under this last card.

All those actions allow players to rule out the wrong codes and get closer to the right guess.

The game ends after the 12th card was played in the row. Then they check how successful their guesses were.

PUP ROUND-UP

Game Design: Ilya Eltunov

Artwork: uildrim, Marina Piskunova

GAME OVERVIEW

Pup Round-Up is a cooperative real-time roll-and-move game for children, which adjusts its level of complexity depending on the age of the players. In this game you will be helping a border collie to catch all the sheep on the field.

GAMEPLAY

Before the start of the game, players choose how much time they will set for the game, depending on how complex they want the game to be (age recommendations are listed in the rules).

Players take turns one by one taking mutual decisions:

Roll the dice

Add or subtract
the numbers you rolled

Move the dog
that many spaces

When they land on a space with a sheep, they catch it and remove the tile from the field.

In order to win, they need to catch all the sheep before time runs out.

When doubles are rolled, instead of moving the collie on the board, a gate with the corresponding number is closed or opened on the field. Gates block the paths, making the collie go and find another way.

INKDOMS

Game Design: Ivan Tuzovsky

Artwork: Ivan Shavrin, LaLu, Anna Kalchenko, Ekaterina Zharova

GAME OVERVIEW

Inkdoms is an original family roll-and-write game, in which players will be coloring areas of their Inkdoms. In doing so, they will gain spells, defeat and tame monsters, build capitals, and mix colors to create composite hues.

GAMEPLAY

Each round the first player rolls 4 dice on the board inside the box. Then, starting with the first player, they one by one pick a die from the box and color areas on their player sheet.

The placement of the die on the game board determines the Inkdom, which areas the player has to color. The number on the die (drops) shows how many areas of that Inkdom they need to color. Finally, the color of the die determines the color of the pencil the player will use.

Players cannot color adjacent areas with the same color.

However, when a player colors spells, they give them some ways to break those rules, for instance:

- move all the drops to another Inkdom;
- color adjacent areas with the same color;
- divide drops between adjacent Inkdoms;
- replace 2 drops with 1 drop of any composite color (green, brown or purple).

VICTORY POINTS

During the game players will be scoring victory points for coloring certain areas. When a player colors all the areas in one Inkdom, or all the monsters of the same type, they get 'speed' VPs for being the 1st or the 2nd player to do so. That is the only time they announce their progress to claim some achievements.

They also get some bonus VPs when:

- they color capitals with the same color;
- they color monsters with the same color.

SOLO MODE

When playing solo you try to score as many VPs as possible. The rules remain the same, but at the end of each round you will lose one opportunity to score an achievement (as if your opponent has completed it before you).

KEY SELLING POINTS

- ▶ Engaging puzzle and strategic depth

PARADOX ISLAND

Game Design: Stepan Opalev

Artwork: Evgeny Zubkov

GAME OVERVIEW

Paradox Island is an adventure deduction game, in which all players except one will be exploring the island that only that one player can see. By moving blindly across the island players will be recreating the map and try to complete their missions.

OBJECTIVE

One of the players takes on the role of the Omnipotence Paradox (OP) – the only player who sees the island and other players' movements. Their mission is to have captives perished 5 times.

The rest players become captives of the island. Their missions are connected with movement across the island, visiting certain spaces or fulfilling certain conditions 5 times. The one to complete their mission first wins.

GAME FLOW

Captives take their turns one by one going clockwise with the OP finishing the circle.

On their turn, a captive can perform up to 2 actions, announcing them and getting feedback from the OP:

- 1) move 1 space in any of the six directions automatically activating it. However, they can spend 1 energy to
 - move 1 space over;
 - move safely, which means you decide whether to activate the space or not after they know what it is.
- 2) restore energy.

After a captive announced their movement, the OP names the destination point aloud. Everyone hears the movements of the other players and can take notes on the map. However, they only know their own starting point, so during the game they need to think and put pieces together to have a better view of the map.

Spaces have good and bad effects, making players get some bonus actions and movements or lose their health and energy instead.

The OP controls 3 pieces on the island — the Rock, the Bush and the Wave. On the OP's turn they can move the pieces around the island meddling into captives' plans by making them harm or pushing to unwanted spaces.

FURNACE. DUEL

Game Design: Ivan Lashin and Andrey Kolupaev

Artwork: Sergey Dulin, Darya Sokolovskaya and others

GAME OVERVIEW

Furnace Duel is a 2-player follow-up to the popular Furnace board game. It is playable both in standalone and campaign modes, in which you compete for global industrial domination in a series of games played on six different boards.

GAMEPLAY

The core gameplay in Furnace Duel is the same as in the base Furnace game. You bid for Company cards, get them or receive compensation, then use your cards and manage resources in order to gain the most money by the end of the 4th round.

However, here's no compensation effect on top of the Company cards. You receive compensation by claiming routes (1) on the game board. The value of your disc shows how many times you may use the effects of connected Cities (in any order or combination). At the beginning of the game, the only available tracks are the ones leading from the City corresponding to the card in question, but as your network grows, you gain access to new tracks and more lucrative Cities.

Each of the 6 game boards has special rules and features.

In the Campaign mode, you accumulate Campaign points awarded for winning a game and for fulfilling Achievements, both general and board-specific.

The runner-up gets a board-specific bonus that gives them a bit of the upper hand in the following games.

Cards can be upgraded with the city effects.

There are Shipping companies (2), which are one-shot cards with a neutral brown disc printed on them – it is considered a bid of a neutral player.

KEY SELLING POINTS

- Familiar gameplay with a new twist
- Campaign mode with six different boards
- New resource tokens and capital discs compatible with the classic Furnace game
- And custom wooden trains!
- Resource pack available – sold separately

GAMEPLAY

There are 2 roles in the game: a Murderer and a Detective. The game can be played in teams.

The Murderer secretly becomes 1 of the 20 civilians on the gameboard and chooses 1 Social group (civilians of one color) as their Supporters. They also get a Motive – a rule according to which they choose their victims.

Every civilian has a number of characteristics: sex, age, build and height.

A new murder is committed every round and the murdered civilian is taken off the city board.

The Detective moves to the crime scene and starts investigating. On their turn they can:

The Murderer answers for a civilian and has to tell the truth, unless the civilian being questioned is from the Supporters or the Murderer themselves.

GAME OVERVIEW

Tales of Tails is an escape competition in which you will build ways out of the dungeon. The goal of each player is to build an efficient path for themselves to escape the dungeon and do so while activating Room card effects before other players do.

GAMEPLAY

The game lasts 3 rounds. During a round, as soon as a player escapes the dungeon, a countdown to the end of the round starts, and other players have to either manage to escape the dungeon too, or stay there.

On your turn you can take 1 of 3 actions:

Game Design: Ivan Lashin

Artwork: Oleg Yurkov, Sergey Dulin, Vadim Poluboyarov, Marta Ivanova, Egor Zharkov, Ilya Konovalov

GAME OVERVIEW

Furnace is an astounding engine-building euro game where the players take on the roles of the 19th-century industrialists. Throughout several auction rounds, they will be bidding on cards to either develop their production chains or gain instant bonuses, and then resolving their facilities to maximize their profits.

GAMEPLAY

The game is played over 4 rounds. Each round consists of 2 phases: Auction and Production.

AUCTION PHASE

Each player has 4 discs with values 1–4 to bid on the cards in the common row. The players take turns placing 1 of their discs on the cards until they don't have any discs left.

Placement Rules

1. No discs of the same value on one card
2. No discs of the same color on one card

Then, the cards are resolved one by one in order from left to right.

The highest bid receives the card. All other bids get compensated: the value of the disc multiplies the compensation.

PRODUCTION PHASE

Now, the players manage their own cards in any order they wish. They may gain resources, process them into other resources or money, and upgrade their cards (Q) for additional effects.

GAME END

When the 4th round is over, the player with the most money tokens wins.
